What's it all about?

Great learning comes when people want to learn and when they can discover the answers for themselves. This way they are much more likely to put what they learn into practice on the job.

This session will help trainers to put the learners at the heart of everything they do.

"I learned that I can implement different training techniques, that I wasn't aware of before today, with confidence. I also experienced how powerful it is when you are in a room with different people and new skills and you are able to come out of your comfort zone.

Enthusiastic, fun, and educational."

Supercharge your learning, BskyB

Who will benefit?

In this workshop, learning facilitators of all levels of expertise will experience a style of learning that involves and engages all participants – and will leave with simple ideas to enhance their design and bring any session they deliver to life.

Learning Outcomes

Following the workshop trainers will be able to:

- Structure learning to reflect the natural learning cycle
- Appeal to all learners by using a multi-sensory approach
- Maintain high levels of energy and commitment by keeping people 'in the learning zone' throughout the event
- Apply the principles of learning to sessions they design and deliver
- Ensure effective debriefs to aid integration of learning
- Build up a toolkit of ideas for improving their sessions 'on the spot' simply and effectively

Content

We explore the shift from training in a traditional 'spoon fed' way to facilitating learning using a dynamic, professional, and fun approach.

Throughout the event learners will learn as much from experiencing the style of the workshop as from the content they uncover and this will be fully debriefed at the end of the each day.

We cover:

- The 8 principles of effective learning
- How you can use this approach to deliver exceptional results for your organisation
- Key facilitation skills that support a discovery style of learning. Exploring the changes you need to make to make this type of learning sing
- Instant actions - applying learning straightaway to a real time work related topic
- Capturing ideas to build a personal 'toolkit'
- Anticipating the opportunities and challenges this new approach might bring and developing strategies to deal with them

About Leaps & Bounds

Leaps & Bounds are the UK's most commercially innovative training company supporting organisations whose mission is to support the building of self sufficiency within organisational L & D teams. We work with organisations who want to professionalise their customer service teams and transform quality. We turn 'stop gap' jobs into credible long term careers and build teams of employees who are internally motivated to succeed. They are constantly building their skills and their credibility within the organisation as a customer communication expert. They deliver consistently exceptional service and stay in role for a long time The organisation no longer commits more and more budget to expensive and transient external motivators. We do this through creating a climate of learning and development in day to day activities within the organisation.

We believe in keeping business simple and you will see that in our style, our pricing and our partnership. We love our business and the differences we can open up for organisations of all shapes and sizes. Progress is our aim - to make it rapid and sustainable.

Organisations as diverse as Lambeth Council, Scottish and Southern Energy, Red Cross and Orange trust Leaps & Bounds to support their development.
